Rabbi's Message: Rededicating Ourselves at Hanukkah

Given all of the fires we kindle in December, one might think that the word "Hanukkah" has something to do with light. But the word Hanukkah actually comes from the Hebrew word l'chanech, which means "to dedicate."

After successfully defeating the Syrian-Greeks, the Maccabees had to clean the Temple before they could celebrate. Antiochus had taken over the Temple in Jerusalem and defiled it, putting up statues of Zeus and slaughtering pigs on the altar. In order to preserve the tradition they had fought so hard for, the Maccabees had to purify the Temple and re-dedicate it to the worship of God.

This is a lesser-known reason that Hanukkah lasts for eight days. The Maccabees modeled the holiday after the eight-day dedication ceremony Solomon held for the First Temple. The legend of the miraculous cruse of oil that burned for the entire time emerged a few centuries later.

Thankfully, our sanctuary does not need to be purified—though we are replacing the carpet! But we, too, are at a moment of rededication. At this crossroads in our congregation's history, we are taking a good look at the community we have been and rededicating ourselves to building a Jewish future. It is time for us to ask ourselves, as a community: To what are we rededicating ourselves? What kind of community can we build for the 21st century Jew? What lights do we want to kindle for the generations to come?

This January, I will lead four "Discovery Sessions" for our congregation. At these 90-minute sessions, members of our community will have an opportunity to speak about what Vassar Temple has meant to us and what we hope to build for the future. Using the model of Appreciative Inquiry, we will share the experiences that have made a positive impact on our lives and imagine how we can build upon these experiences to improve our community.

The word Hanukkah also shares its root with the word chinuch, education or learning. Our Discovery Sessions are an opportunity for us to learn about one another and dedicate ourselves to the education of the next generation.

Each Discovery Session is geared towards a sub-group of our congregation, so we can address the experiences of different segments of our population. If you are in one of these groups, planning to be in that group soon, have loved ones in that group, or are just interested in the experiences of your fellow congregants, please join us. If you can't make the Discovery Session you most identify with, or if you don't want to choose from one of the categories below, please know that you are welcome to join us at any Discovery Session. You need only attend one Discovery Session to have your voice heard. There will be a light nosh at each event.

Young Adults and Parents with Children at Home: Sunday, January 10, 2016, 9:00am

Seniors (Self-Identified): Sunday, January 24, 2016, 12:00 noon

Empty-Nesters and Adults without Children: Thursday, January 21, 2016, 7:00pm

Interfaith Families and Jews by Choice: Tuesday, January 26, 2016, 7:00pm

Even though their Temple had been desecrated, and their oil reserves were low, the Maccabees lit that first light, rededicating themselves to the tradition of their ancestors. In doing so, they inadvertently created something new: the first post-biblical holiday.

As we prepare to light our own Hanukkah lights, may we rededicate ourselves to building a bright Jewish future. And like the lights of Hanukkah, and the traditions of Hanukkah, may the dreams we have for our community keep burning long into the next generation.

Rabbi Leah Berkowitz

President's Message: Puzzle Pieces

Have you ever gone to temple for services and thought to yourself that life seemed clearer for being there? I mean that sitting in the sanctuary, reading the scriptures and meditations, listening to Rabbi, and singing the songs, had a way of centering you and bringing your focus back to what matters.

The passages we read were not written for us, but they were meant for us - and the circumstances we face in life, in our community, and in our world. The passages are like puzzle pieces that can fill the empty spaces in our life - our heart, our soul.

Jews pray together as a community, in a beit tefilah, a house of prayer. We also study there, in a beit midrash, a house of study. And temple is also a beit k'nesset, a house of assembly. We go to temple to pray, study, and to be with one another.

Every time I go to temple I am open to the possibility that someone I will see or meet is a messenger. In 1977, Rabbi Lawrence Kushner said what I'm trying to say:

"Each lifetime is the piece of a jigsaw puzzle.

For some there are more pieces.

For others the puzzle is more difficult to assemble.

Some seem to be born with nearly a completed puzzle.

And so it goes.

Souls going this way and that

Trying to assemble the myriad parts.

But know this. No one has within themselves

All the pieces to their puzzle...

Everyone carries with them at least one and probably

Many pieces to someone else's puzzle.

Sometimes they know it.

Sometimes they don't.

And when you present your piece

Which is worthless to you,

To another, whether you know it or not,

Whether they know it or not,

You are a messenger from the Most High.

Vassar Temple has many messengers: "Ordinary people who happen to carry messages of the Most High, even unknown to themselves." Rabbi Kushner also said, "Never forget that you, too, yourself may be a messenger. Perhaps even one whose errand extends over several lifetimes."

When we go to Vassar Temple, to pray or to study or for an occasion, the potential exists to find a missing piece to our puzzle or to help someone with theirs. That is exciting if you think about it. It's a reason to go with an open and optimistic heart. It is a reason to make yourself available and to reach out. It is a reason to be grateful; grateful for our community, grateful for Vassar Temple. Waking from his sleep, Jacob said, "Truly, Adonai is in the place, and I did not know it!"

Religious School Director: Let's Get a Few Things Straight

As with so many things, the problem started with Alexander the Great, and, in particular, with what he didn't do.

Just over 2,300 years ago, Alexander III "The Great" of Macedonia was a young man of 32 who had conquered the known world in just a decade --- a feat marked to this day by the names of cities like Alexandria, Egypt, and, 2,000 miles further east, Kandahar, Afghanistan. Alexander's first wife was seven month's pregnant, and, in both a literal and figurative marriage of east and west, he had just taken the daughter of the defeated Persian ruler Darius III as a second wife. How could Alexander have known that he wouldn't live long enough to be a father?

Demonstrating understandable but ill-fated short-sightedness, Alexander had, therefore, not created a plan of succession, so his death brought huge instability, with various generals and other power brokers vying for control.

Four points define the geography of the ancient world: Greece in the west; Persia (Iran) in the east; Egypt in the south; and Syria, where the journey north from Egypt intersects the east-west trail from Greece to Persia. So power centers were established in those four places. (It is not coincidence that, more than 2,000 years later, Iran, Egypt, Syria, and Greece still dominate the news.)

Jerusalem had the misfortune of lying just off the path from Syria to Egypt, so every time the new Syrian dynasty and the new Egyptian dynasty fought, Jerusalem was part of the battleground. For a while Egypt had the upper hand, and Jerusalem was part of Egypt. Then around 200 BCE, the Syrian ruler Antiochus III "The Great" won Jerusalem and turned it into a Syrian province.

That wouldn't have been so bad but for the fact that Antiochus III had a son, Antiochus IV. The details are complex --- and involve familiar figures like Hannibal --- but the upshot is that Antiochus IV was taken into Roman captivity, only to be freed later for another Syrian ruler's son.

While Antiochus III's nickname was "The Great," Antiochus IV was dubbed "The Insane." And this was not good news at all. Antiochus IV tried to quash Jewish practice in Jerusalem. This is the Antiochus against whom the famous Maccabees took up arms. The Maccabees, led in large part by Judah Maccabee, prevailed. This is the victory we celebrate at Hanukkah.

Because Antiochus IV was from Syria, some people say that the Maccabees fought the Syrians. And because Antiochus IV was part of the Greek dynasty that took over Syria after Alexander the Great's death, other people say that the Maccabees fought the Greeks. This is why different versions of the Hanukkah story variously refer either to the Syrians or to the Greeks.

So Hanukkah originally commemorated the violent overthrow of violent and unstable Syrian Greek rulers.

Unfortunately, the Maccabees, while able fighters, were less capable rulers. For instance, Simon, one of the five Maccabee brothers, served as high priest of Jerusalem. Then one of his sons, John Hyrcanus I, took over. The reason that Hyrcanus was next, rather than one of Simon's other two sons, is that Simon's son-in-law had murdered them, along with Simon himself. And astonishingly, those events were peaceful compared to what would follow.

Later --- perhaps because of the dubious optics of a holiday that commemorated overthrowing the government --- Hanukkah was recast in terms of the familiar light and darkness, oil and miracles.

But I think those four elements were actually there from the outset. We see from the full story what we already knew: Life is complex and messy. We have periods of light and periods of darkness. The path to the light is often a mundane one that's based far less in lofty theology and far more in our day-to-day existence.

Oh yes. And, if we look carefully, we find that life is marked by miracles.

Happy Hanukkah

Dr. Joel Hoffman

Book Club to Discuss The Invention of Wings on December 16th

Vassar Temple Sisterhood's Book Club will discuss The Invention of Wings by Sue Monk Kidd, the celebrated author of

The Secret Life of Bees. This exquisitely written historical novel focuses on two unforgettable women whose struggles for liberation, empowerment, and expression will leave no reader unmoved. The meeting will take place on Wednesday, December 16th at 2:00pm in the Community Room of Collegeview Tower, 141 Fulton Avenue, Poughkeepsie.

Hetty "Handful" Grimke, an urban slave in 19th century Charleston, yearns for life beyond the suffocating walls of the wealthy Grimke household. The Grimke's daughter Sarah, who ultimately will become an important historic figure in the early abolition and suffragette movements, feels hemmed in by the limits imposed on women. The story is set in motion on Sarah's eleventh birthday when she is given ownership of ten year old Handful, who is to be her handmaid. Their remarkable journeys take place over the next thirty-five years as both women strive for lives of their own, shaping each other's destinies, and forming a complex relationship marked by guilt, defiance, and estrangement.

The Invention of Wings is available in paperback and through the local library system. Val Suter will lead the discussion to which everyone is welcome. To RSVP or get more information, please contact Linda Babas at 473-7931 or linda.babas.41@gmail.com. Your suggestions for future readings are always welcome.

FUND FACTS: The Hineni Fund

Hineni. How many times have you heard that word? Hineni. It is the word that Abraham speaks to God in Genesis to say, "Here I am!" Hineni. Rabbi Berkowitz, not knowing of the special significance of Hineni to Vassar Temple, spoke about it in her High Holy Day sermon this year. Hineni! Hineni is a powerful and significant declaration for Jews, a statement proclaiming that one is present, ready to stand and take a stand. But at Vassar Temple, it holds still deeper meaning.

This month marks the fourth anniversary of the sudden loss of our Congregation's beloved President, Seth A. Erlebacher, z"l. During the year that followed Seth's passing, in consultation with his family, our Temple decided to honor Seth's enduring legacy of service by naming the Seth A. Erlebacher Religious School in his memory. The Temple simultaneously established The Hineni Fund to support the vitality of the religious school and youth programs, aspects of Jewish life to which Seth was particularly devoted.

As members of our community observe Seth's Yahrzeit this month, it is an appropriate time to renew attention on The Hineni Fund, which Seth's exemplary Jewish life inspired. Supporting The Hineni Fund at Vassar Temple is not only a way to continue recognizing and honoring Seth, through it one can contribute to the future of Judaism and pass our traditions and teachings to succeeding generations – l'dor vador. Then next time you want to meaningfully recognize a loved one's simcha or Yahrzeit, or simply assert your dedication to Jewish beliefs, consider a contribution to The Hineni Fund. In doing that, you will follow in the footsteps of Abraham and of Seth and also say "Hineni!" for future generations.
