Prior to the Purim shpiel, at 6:00pm, Men's Club will be serving a pasta dinner in the social hall. Cost for the meal is $5 per person. Please RSVP for the dinner to mensclub@vassartemple.org by March 6th.

Rivalry and Redemption: March 17th & 18th

Guest speaker, Dr. Diane Sharon, is a scholar and teacher of the Hebrew Bible, Comparative Religion, and Ancient Near Eastern Literature. Family relationships in the bible are full of strife and rivalry. From Cain and Abel to Moses and Aaron, biblical family dynamics include seduction, betrayal, and coercion, but these stories also offer a road map to healing and forgiveness. Join us on this journey from rivalry to redemption, to gain new insights and learn something about your own kith and kin. This program is being offered in partnership with Temple Beth El.

Rabbi's Message: Kevah and Kavannah

The rabbis never intended for Jewish prayer to become a matter of routine.

Prayer was instituted as a replacement for the rituals of the ancient Temple: three daily services standing in for three daily sacrifices; 100 blessings a day to substitute for the 100 sockets in the Mishkan (Tabernacle). But while the quotas for daily prayer might have been fixed, the content was always meant to be a matter of the heart.

Soon, however, rabbis started writing down the prayers of their hearts, which somehow became codified as a fixed liturgy. Even the blank space for “silent prayer” was soon occupied by one rabbi’s favored meditation. Thus, it is often the case that, in our limited worship time, the prayers of our hearts are edged out by the prayers on the page.

Even as the rabbis were composing prayers to be handed down from generation to generation, they were aware of this problem. Rabbi Eliezar says in the Mishnah: “If you make your prayer a fixed task, your requests are invalid” (Berachot 4:3-4:4). Prayer, the rabbis said, was supposed to be a balance of the kevah—a fixed time, place, or content—and kavan- nah—praying with intention, creativity, and spontaneity.

This is a difficult balance to strike. We crave familiarity in both words and melody; we feel discomfort when our traditions change too fast or too much. But the more familiar our service becomes, the more likely it is to become rote. We end up bored, or rush through our prayers on autopilot.

This is why it has been so important for the Reform movement to regularly introduce new liturgies, new rituals, and, once every generation, a new prayer book. I was fortunate enough to take part in the creation of our newest High Holy Day prayer book, Mishkan HaNefesh (Sanctuary of the Soul).

With gratitude to Gil and Arlene Seligman, who underwrote the purchase of Mishkan HaNefesh for our congregation, we are excited to announce that we are introducing this new prayer book in this year’s High Holy Day services.

A new prayer book gives us the opportunity to look at an ancient tradition with fresh eyes, or, as Rav Abraham Isaac Kook once said, “to make the old new, and the new sacred.” Mishkan HaNefesh balances the kevah of the traditional prayers with the kavannah of creative translations, poetic interpretations, and even visual art, all of which speak to the complex and diverse modern world we inhabit.

Still, even this thoughtful new liturgy will be overwhelming if the first time we see it is on Rosh Hashana. Therefore, we are offering two opportunities to engage with the new prayer book this spring.

The first is my course entitled, “Entering Mishkan HaNefesh: A New High Holy Day Experience.” We will explore the new book and how many of its innovative elements came to be. The class will meet on three (non-consecutive) Thursdays at 7:00pm on March 2nd, 16th, and 30th.

The second opportunity to encounter our new prayer book is our Mishkan HaNefesh Shabbat! On Friday, April 14th at 7:30pm, Cantorial Student Laura Stein and I will lead a Shabbat service using Mishkan HaNefesh, so that we can develop a familiarity with the book’s design and content.

Please also stay tuned regarding naming opportunities for these beautiful new prayer books!

We are so blessed to have the opportunity to employ Mishkan HaNefesh in our High Holy Day worship this year. Join us as we immerse ourselves in this new liturgy and prepare to look at our ancient kevah prayers with a new kavannah.

President's Message

Is there a best time for Shabbat services?

During the winter, our Shabbat services began on Friday nights at 6:00pm. Attendance was good, however, we always hope for more congregants and visitors to attend.

Beginning this month, Friday night services will commence at 7:30pm.

We are hopeful that those who found the 6:00pm start inconvenient will celebrate Shabbat at this new later time and that those who were able to attend services at the earlier time will continue to attend at 7:30pm.

We are trying to identify which time is best for the majority, while acknowledging that there is no time that is perfect for everyone. However, maybe there are times to begin Friday night services that will work better for most, generating greater attendance. Maybe moving the start time from time to time would help.

Having Shabbat services at different locations has been suggested. Would that bring more congregants and guests to worship with us on Friday evenings?

If you have suggestions, we want to hear from you! You may email the Temple directly (office@vassartemple.org) or contact me by email (vassar-templepresident@gmail.com) or phone, 845-475-5070.

We look forward to celebrating Shabbat with you for at least the time being on Fridays at 7:30pm.

Mark Metzger

New Paths Services

Join us at the New Paths sabbath morning service Saturday, March 4th at 10:00am in the informal, intimate setting of Vassar Temple's East Chapel. The moving liturgy of the New Paths prayer book includes both traditional and contemporary writings, mostly in English, and participants may bring supplemental materials to share. Each New Paths service, whether lay led or rabbi led, provides a unique and thoughtful shabbat morning experience. A brief mini-kiddush follows. For more information, please contact Marian Schwartz mschwa9882@aol.com, Rabbi Berkowitz rbbi@vassartemple.org, or the Temple office 845-454-2570.

PURIM PASTA: Help Us Shake Down Hunger on March 11th

Giving Shalach Manot -- food to family, friends, neighbors -- is a delightful Jewish tradition associated with the holiday of Purim. At Vassar Temple, we believe it's important to reduce hunger in our community.

Please join us at the Purim service at Vassar Temple on March 11th and bring boxes of pasta to Temple to shake when the Megillah is read (the boxes are the groggers!) and then donate. Prevail with the noise of victory! After services, the boxes will be collected and delivered to a local food pantry. Macaroni, ziti, bow ties, too -- any will do! Get ready to shake them!

The opportunity to fight hunger with our Jewish brothers and sisters is just boxes away. Questions? Contact Nancy Samson, Social Action Committee, at canjam123@aol.com.

We Need Your Help!

We are, once again, asking that you be the eyes and ears in the lives of our congregational family. Federal patient privacy regulations limit the information that hospitals make available to clergy and volunteers.

We are encouraging you to contact the Temple office when a congregant is admitted to a hospital and wishes to have Rabbi visit during the hospital stay. Our goal is to meet the needs of all our congregants, and we can only do this with your help.

From the Religious School Director

Recently I asked one of my students if she knew her Hebrew name. She didn't and she wasn't even sure that she had received one.

In our Jewish tradition, each new baby receives a Hebrew name along with a blessing shortly after s/he is born. Most males receive their names along with the traditional blessings that are said during the Brit Milah (Bris) ceremony. The parents of baby girls have to make an effort to arrange to make this ritual happen without the impetus of a ceremony already in place. As you can already guess, there are those children, both male and female, who fall through the cracks and find themselves weeks away from their Bar or Bat Mitzvah without a Hebrew name. In addition there are also many adults who come to realize that though they have been named, they have no memory or information on what their parents had named them years earlier.

When do we use our Hebrew names?

They are used when you are called to the Torah for an Aliyah, in healing prayers and as part of the Hebrew name of your children. Hebrew names always include our parents' names. For example, my Hebrew name is Shandel Malcah bat Moshe Chaim v'Zelda. Truthfully my name is a Yiddish name (Shandel Malcah) as is my mother's (Zelda). The word "Bat" means "daughter of." When I say a healing prayer, I use the person's Hebrew name and their mother's name.

Names are important. Recently we read from the Torah the first Parsha of the Book of Shmot. Shmot, also known as The Book of Exodus, begins with the listing of the sons of Jacob and their offspring. These names, many already listed in the Book of Genesis, are repeated. In fact the word SHMOT means names. Those whose names appear in the Torah are individuals we look to for help in understanding our connection with the past and with God.

We learn early on in Parshat Shmot that a new Pharaoh arose in Egypt who did not "remember" Joseph the son of Jacob who had saved Egypt from a devastating famine. In fact, the Pharaoh not only conveniently forgot this national hero, but felt threatened by Joseph's people, the Israelites. He was so threatened that he subjugated the Israelites into slavery, taking the rights they had lived with for many years and even went as far as to kill the male babies in order to limit or destroy any rebellion that might rise up.

Pointedly, Pharaoh is not given a name or identity. Although he has a legacy of cruelty and stubbornness, he as an individual is forgotten to time. However, the Hebrew midwives, Shifrah and Puah who thwart Pharaoh's edict to kill the newborn baby boys are named. Their legacy of righteousness and standing up in the face of evil is alive and they are granted the honor of remembrance through their names for their courage and action.

The Hebrew word Shmot means names. It is the plural of the word Shem – name. This word is masculine in its singular form and feminine in its plural form. For me this means that the word is balanced, equal – for when you are discussing something as important as the naming of something, it is beyond gender.

Names are important. We are given them, sometimes they are given in remembrance of a past generation; sometimes they are given as an effort to shape and influence our children. Other names are sometimes given to describe the people that we have become.

Each and every one of our children and their family members are important and deserve to be remembered as individuals. Remind yourselves of your Hebrew names and explain to your children where their Hebrew names came from. If you need help finding your name or naming your children, please contact myself or Rabbi Berkowitz and we will help you make sure that you and your children are named in the Jewish tradition.

Annual "From Chametz-to-Table" Food Drive

This March and April, as you clear your cabinets of chametz in preparation for the holiday of Passover, we hope you will consider dropping off these foods at our Temple and placing them in the CAN JAM bin so that we can deliver them to our local pantries and help feed the hungry.

Among other foods, our Morse students need instant mashed potatoes, rice and macaroni-and-cheese, foods that can be easily taken home from the school and consumed at home. Your donations of these foods are much appreciated in the spirit of this special holiday.

Happy Passover. Questions? Contact Nancy Samson or Marian Schwartz, Social Action Committee at 845-235-2860 or canjam123@aol.com.

Beautiful Broadway Trip

Neither the cold nor the wet weather dampened the spirits of nearly 40 Vassar Temple travelers who headed to NYC and Broadway on Sunday, January 22nd to see the Carole King (Klein) story, “Beautiful.” Loading the bus at Vassar Temple, the group then headed to Ben’s Kosher Deli for lunch on the way to the fabulous show, with much noshing and kibitzing all the way. According to the Ritter’s who organized the trip, nearly $1000 was raised for Vassar Temple thanks to everyone’s generosity. Special thanks to the host and hostess with the mostest, Mary and Jonah, who made all the arrangements and added lots of perks (like candy and snacks) and their personal warmth to the wonderful sense of VT community on this fabulous trip.

FUND FACTS: A "PreSCRIPTION" to Ease Donation Pain

It's one of those reminders that we see and hear so often that sometimes it fades into the background; yet, it remains one of the most steady streams of revenue for the Temple. SCRIP! This robust program is the greatest source of true "Fund Facts" I have seen in a while. Consider this:

- Since Sandra Mamis launched the SCRIP Program at Vassar Temple several years ago, more than $800,000 worth of cards has been sold.
- Through the SCRIP program, cards can be purchased for use at more than 500 merchants.
- Profits from SCRIP support general expenses at the Temple and play a vital role toward balancing the budget.
- SCRIP card purchases have yielded nearly $60,000 in revenue for our Temple.

Imagine being able to purchase monthly groceries or weekly gas, replace household appliances, buy a birthday gift for a special someone, or even support a Starbucks habit, and make a contribution to Vassar at the same time. Through SCRIP, you can do that! You will be amazed at how easy it is to make purchases using SCRIP; and rumor has it the dedicated team that maintains the program will even deliver SCRIP to your doorstep, upon request.

There is simply no easier, less painful way to support Vassar Temple. Have I gotten your attention? Take a moment and learn more about the SCRIP program at: <http://www.vassartemple.org/donate-to-vt/scrip-program>. This month, give it a try!

Reform Jewish Voice of NYS

As the 240th Legislative Session opens, RJV will continue to advocate for progressive approaches to housing issues, homelessness, healthcare, pay equity, living wages, quality public education, human and civil rights, and the interconnectedness between them. They are already working to raise the age at which a youth can be tried as an adult in our state. NYS is one of only 2 states that treats youth as adults in its criminal justice system starting at age 16.

RJV is sponsoring a two-day program for teens (gr.9-12) in Albany, Sunday, March 19th & Monday, March 20th to learn about social justice issues that affect residents of NYS, and then lobby their state representatives on Monday. Further information on the teen event: <https://newyork.nfty.org/event/nfty-nar-albany-advocacy-day/> and youthgroup@vassartemple.org.

If you would like info about joining a local group to advocate on these issues, contact socialaction@vassartemple.org.
