From the Rabbi's Desk

As I reflect upon my first year as your rabbi, the song “Getting to Know You” from The King and I comes to mind. Getting to know you, as Vassar Temple and as individuals, has been my primary goal for this first year. It takes the full cycle of a year to understand a congregation’s unique culture (never heard of a Soup and Chili Shabbat!). “Getting to Know You” has confirmed my initial impressions of Vassar Temple as an engaged, caring congregation, invested in the lives of its members and in the welfare of the larger community, committed to the Jewish people and its future, and open to new ways of engaging people at all ages and stages of life.

Thanks to our Membership Committee, especially Sandra Mamis and our gracious hosts, I was able to begin to get to know many of you through the ‘At Home with Rabbi Altman’ gatherings. I continue to welcome opportunities to get to know those unable to attend.

I am most appreciative of the relationships that I have begun to build with so many of you through the various temple programs and activities in which you are engaged. I am so inspired by the hard-working members of the different committees and arms of the temple who give so much of themselves to this community. I want to express special thanks to our president, Alan Kflowitz, and our first vice president, Susan Karnes Hecht, for their on-going guidance and support from my first interview until now. My deepest appreciation, as well, to the Religious School Committee, under the leadership of Shaari Roland, for their active engagement and support of our religious school and of me.

I certainly could not function as your rabbi without the support of our staff: Michelle Havas, office assistant; Irene Vasquez, bookkeeper; Joseph Bertolozzi, accompanist, Alvin Rosen, custodian; and Maria Munoz, kitchen staff.

So many images come to my mind as highlights of this year:

- The majesty yet intimacy of our High Holy day services
- The beautiful Installation Shabbat
- The sanctuary aglow from the lights of the chanukiot
- Adults completely enthralled making fruit faces for Tu B’shevat
- A tie-dye clad congregation singing rock and roll Purim parodies
- Healing services that touched our souls
- LunchBox with eager children preparing meals for the hungry
- Pruning the Pershing Cemetery in the rain on Mitzvah Day

Even as I look back on this first year with a great sense of satisfaction in how far we have come in ‘getting to know’ one another, I look forward with great excitement to the coming year. Most especially, I look forward to welcoming Cantor Elizabeth Goldmann (See p.4) I am eager to have a clergy partner and to all that she will bring to our worship experiences.

I am also excited to introduce a ‘Learners’ Service’ on occasional Shabbat mornings. Meaningful worship evolves from a combination of understanding the liturgy and familiarity with the prayers. Learners’ Services achieve both goals by incorporating teaching within a worship service. A schedule will be announced in the fall.

As I write this article, Rick and I are preparing to move into our beautiful new home. I will be on vacation taking until mid-July as we settle in and then take some time away so that I can return with full energy for a new year. I am most grateful to Rabbi Golomb who will be available for life cycle emergencies; please contact Alan if you need to reach him.

Wishing you all a wonderful summer,

Rabbi Renni Altman

From Our President: What Success Looks Like

Just recently we had another successful Congregational Meeting where we voted on the budget and thrust forward with 2019-2020. We have some pretty amazing committees that essentially fulfill the needs and run the major functions of the Temple. We also have a new Rabbi, who is doing extraordinarily well in her first year. Rabbi Renni Altman has demonstrated positive and energetic leadership in the congregation and wider community. Her other big role is to lead the Religious and Hebrew School as the Director for which she is doing an amazing job. Her knowledge of Judaism, connecting with congregants and her understanding of pastoral care are her greatest assets. So, thank you Rabbi!

I also wanted to thank the committees for a successful year! Here are highlights from their reports that I received for the congregational meeting:

Music Committee (Bob Abrams, Chair): lined up two wonderful cantorial students (Jenna Mark, Ilana Goldman) and a recently graduated cantor (Jacob Niemi) with the help of Rabbi Altman. The committee worked with Joe Bertolozzi to find an organization interested in taking the organ off our hands for $500.

SCRIP (Sandra Mamis): her due diligence of pushing SCRIP made a total profit of $8,256.31 from SCRIP sales, half of which are from nine buyers. Can you imagine if more congregants bought SCRIP?

Religious School Committee (Shaari Roland): had a larger role this year to support Rabbi Altman to transition in as the Religious School Director. The RS Committee supported the supervision of the Madrachim program to plan special activities for holidays, like Passover and the Purim Carnival.

VT Sisterhood (Lisa Sue Quackenbush): held two successful rummage, Judaica shop sales for both the spring and fall, held regular Book Club meetings, bought one dishwasher, three air conditioners, held amazing Chai Noon lunches, hamantaschen for all, sisterhood Shabbat...the list goes on.

Membership Committee (Andi Ciminello): brought in eleven new family members this year, ran very successful Kabbalat Shabbat Happy Hour programs, started the Y’Ladim

New Paths Services

Rabbi Altman will lead a New Paths service on Saturday, July 27th at about 10:15am (after Torah study). For dates and times of other New Paths sabbath morning worship during July and August, watch the weekly e-mails or contact Marian Schwartz at mschwa9882@aol.com or call the Temple at (845) 454-2570.

Team, a task force to engage young families through special events and also, the 'New Member Mentor' program, where existing members serve as buddies to new members.

Ritual Committee (David Hecht): High Holy Days services were very successful and ran smoothly with an increase in congregant involvement, there were three well attended inter-generational Shabbatonim, including a Tu B'shevat Seder, supported the development of the community Shabbaton with Temple Beth El and Shir Chadash. The committee also worked closely with the Music Committee to select cantorial interns. Please watch for a survey from them soon about Shabbat Evening Services.

Social Action Committee (Marian Schwartz): successfully continued various ongoing and annual social action activities. A new achievement for social action at Vassar Temple this year is that a grant from the Groten Fund allowed our social action advocacy team leader (Howard Susser) to take a rigorous online course endorsed by the URJ called "Don't Kvetch---Organize." He will be using his new skills and sharing the knowledge gained from the course to help anyone who is interested in learning how to advocate more effectively. The committee successfully involved the RS School children in our Thanksgiving basket project, and with the help of Paul Ciminello, embarked upon a partnership with the Mid-Hudson Islamic Association for LunchBox.

Thank you to all the committee chairs and members. You are the reason for many aspects of our success at Vassar Temple.

Welcome Cantor Elizabeth Goldmann

For the past three years we have been delighted to host student cantors from the Debbie Friedman School of Sacred Music at Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. These interns have made significant contributions to the richness of our services. Unfortunately, due to the increasing number of synagogues requesting students, we were not matched for the coming year with a student despite interviewing excellent candidates.

We have been fortunate to receive a substantial gift from outside the congregation to the Rabbi's Discretionary Fund. Rabbi Altman has chosen to use these funds to supplement our music budget over multiple years, making it possible for us to engage a part-time ordained cantor. After interviewing several applicants, we are excited to welcome Cantor Elizabeth Goldmann to lead our music in the coming year. Cantor Goldmann will be with us during the High Holy Days, holidays, and Friday/Saturday Shabbat services, approximately twice a month.

Cantor Goldmann was born and raised in Closter, NJ, where she was a proud member of the original Temple Beth El Junior choir. After attending Cornell's School of Hotel Administration, she went on to HUC-JIR where she was ordained as a Cantor and earned her Master of Sacred Music in 1991. From 1991 to 2004, she served as Cantor at Temple Beth Torah in Upper Nyack, New York where she founded the Regional Rockland/Bergen Junior Choir Festival, served on the faculty of the URJ's Crane Lake Camp and created a Shabbat Torah study and minyan which has met weekly for over 25 years. Since 2004, Cantor Goldmann has served numerous congregations in the region on a part-time basis. She volunteers at the MacBain Farm in Closter, Meals-on-Wheels, and the Joe Rasso Hospice Residence in New City. She lives in Nanuet with her husband, Michael, a veterinarian, her daughter Shira, her son Noah, two sweet cats, and eight charming chickens. Rabbi Altman, Joe Bertolozzi, and the Music and Ritual Committees look forward to working with Cantor Goldmann over the coming months.

We will continue to make cantorial sponsorships available in order to defray expenses, in turn increasing the duration of this unexpected gift. Please consider sponsoring one of Cantor Goldmann's visits during 2019-20. Sponsorships are $200 for Friday services and $350 for Friday/Saturday visits. Please contact Bob Abrams at music@vassar temple.org for more information, and thank you in advance for your generosity.

There Was (Broadway) Music in the Air at Vassar Temple

More than 50 Vassar Temple congregants and guests were wowed by a performance from retired Rabbi Deborah Zecher at our May 19th "Cabaret Rabbi" event where she performed her production of Broadway Bible in our social hall.

By way of a trip through the Torah, Rabbi Zecher sang songs from many great historic Broadway musicals, including South Pacific, Oklahoma, My Fair Lady, and Kiss Me Kate. It was a wonderful evening of Torah study from a completely different perspective!

The audience was enthralled, offering nods, smiles, and applause after each number, and singing along with Rabbi Zecher's encouragement. Billed as a Vassar Temple 'fun raiser,' the evening was a resounding (with a standing ovation) success!

Thanks go to Rabbi Renni Altman, Susan Karnes Hecht, Marian Schwartz, Ron Rosen, and the Temple office staff for their support and assistance on this event....and, of course, to Arnie Serotsky for all the work he put into seeing this program to fruition!

HEROES AMONG US: A Fortunate Relocation

Anyone who tends plants knows that when you clip an offshoot of a flower, then replant and nurture it in the right environment, it will flourish. This is a fitting metaphor for this month's Heroes Among Us.

She grew up in Philadelphia, transplanted her life to Poughkeepsie in 1954, and with the support of the 'Poughkeepsie family' she found at Vassar Temple and professional encouragement through Arlington Schools and Vassar College, she blossomed. Our hero was a working Mom decades ahead of her time, as she pioneered teacher training programs. In short, because of our latest hero, Elaine Lipschutz, our community has also flourished.

Elaine's trail-blazing path began in 1947 when, after completing her BA and MA at Temple University and eyeing a PhD, she was told by a professor that she had to choose between her PhD or marriage. Much as she wanted both, she chose marriage. This decision brought her to Poughkeepsie when the family relocated so Bob could manage one of his family's cigar factories. A few years later, Elaine's substitute teaching in Arlington resulted in a permanent job offer. Thanks to flexibility from the district, she was able to balance work with family life, and she flourished. Elaine eventually helped launch an innovative teacher training program between Arlington Schools and Vassar College's psychology/education department, incorporating team-teaching and open classrooms in a program that still exists today.

Elaine has held nearly every volunteer position one can hold at Vassar Temple, while also being a devoted wife and mother, and building a career in education that would, over nearly five decades, have a profound impact on the teaching profession. At the same time, she paved the way for women who sought the same work-life balance she ultimately established, at a time when it was uncommon for women to do so.

It is said that when you teach, you touch eternity. Elaine is the embodiment of that statement, yet she remains humble. When I asked Elaine if I could feature her in my column, she said she "would be honored," but truly, the honor was all mine. Thank you, Elaine. Our conversation touched my heart, and your life will touch eternity.

Jewish Storytelling

Storytelling has a rich tradition in Judaism. Perhaps you sat on the knee of a parent or grandparent who told you a biblical tale or a modern parable as a way to share heritage and moral concepts. Or maybe a child or grandchild has sat at your side while engaging in such a memorable experience. It was surely a wonderful way to make intergenerational connections!

Well, with technology being what it is, none should be surprised that there is a modern way to continue having such experiences. With the help of a podcast, free from the URJ, "Stories We Tell" offers the weekly listener a short story filled with meaning. Only a few minutes in length, some are allegories others parables, but each one lends itself to thoughtful reflection. Whether you personally consider the question posed by the moderator at the end of the telling or you gather the family and have a thought provoking conversation as a group, you will find these moments well worth your time.

As you undoubtedly know, podcasting is a free service that allows Internet users to pull audio files (typically MP3s) from a podcasting Web site to listen to on their computers or personal digital audio players. You can access this URJ podcast on ReformJudaism.org/podcasts, or download it on iTunes or wherever you listen. A new story is available every Thursday, just in time for discussing at your Shabbat dinner.

If you wish to learn more about this concept, Rabbi Kaye offers a lovely reflection on why we should be a listener: <https://reformjudaism.org/blog/2017/04/27/stories-we-tell-tune-your-new-favorite-jewish-podcast>

Jewish War Veterans

July 28th: Installation of Officers at Milanese Restaurant Poughkeepsie at 1:00pm

August 4th Regular Meeting

The Private Herman Siegel Post 625, Poughkeepsie, Jewish War Veterans of The United States of America, monthly meetings begin at 9:30am (with coffee/cake schmooze at 9:00) and are held at Congregation Schomre Israel, 18 Park Avenue, Poughkeepsie, New York. If you are Jewish and have served in any branch of the Regular Military, Guard or Reserve, in wartime or peace, you are welcome to come and attend. Non-veterans are also welcome to attend. Questions may be directed to Rob Rubin, Presiding Officer at qbee5@optonline.net.

Let's Help the Children Learn

As you are probably aware, 85% of the children right here in Poughkeepsie come from economically disadvantaged homes. We all know how important education is so that they will be able to make a brighter future for themselves and for their own children. To help them succeed in school, during July & August, we at Vassar Temple are collecting money to help provide school supplies they will need during the coming school year, and which a great many of their families cannot afford.

Please help the children learn by donating to this project today. Just bring your tax-deductible check in any amount to the Temple or mail it to Vassar Temple, 140 Hooker Ave., Poughkeepsie, NY 12601. Checks should be made out to Vassar Temple with 'School Supplies' on the memo line. Money collected in the temple tzedakah boxes during July and August will also go toward school supplies for the children.

We are currently working with Morse Elementary School, located on Mansion Street in Poughkeepsie, which has about 550 students. Last year, through your generosity, we raised enough to also provide art supplies, as well as to make a donation to the Teen Closet to be sure all Poughkeepsie middle and high school students have access to such essentials as deodorant, tooth paste, feminine hygiene products, and underwear.

Investing in the next generation is sure to yield great dividends. Thank you for whatever you can give!

Social Justice at Vassar Temple

There is a story of a small village near a river. One day, a baby floats down the river. Someone rescues it. Another cares for the baby. More babies float down the river. The village organizes for the babies' care and feeding. Eventually the villagers mount an expedition upriver to find the source, and what they find is complex and troubling. Metaphorically, this expedition represents the beginning of an attempt to create social justice.

Social Action, i.e. direct care for needy people, is critically important and very valuable. Our temple does good work in this area and we should continue to do so. We would also like to organize members interested in social justice. We want to form a team that attempts to understand and address root causes of some of society's ills.

Jews have long been interested in social justice. Imagine Shabbat thousands of years ago. A day off from work every week was revolutionary. Passover teaches us to identify with those who are exploited, and repeatedly tells us to treat the stranger well, for we were strangers in a strange land, and we recognize our joy as diminished because of the suffering of our oppressors. Our Talmud has always expressed multiple points of view as valid; helping us understand diversity and inclusivity. And the books of our prophets are full of calls for justice.

Effective social justice work is not just about taking limited actions, but includes organizing people, forming alliances, and engaging in thoughtful, strategic campaigns. Right now we have no specific agenda or commitments; instead, our first step is to listen to the concerns, worries, interests and motivations of our members. If you want to join our team or have other concerns, contact me at hssusser@gmail.com or 845-206-8496.
