Civic Engagement at Vassar Temple

Vassar Temple will offer a Meet Your Government Officials program beginning in January 2026. Invited speakers will include elected officials of the various branches of local, state and federal government.

The first program will feature Dutchess County District Attorney Anthony Parisi on Sunday, January 11 at 3pm. The program will be a Town Hall meeting format with the presenter making preliminary remarks followed by open questions from the community. This is an opportunity to understand the roles and responsibilities of our government officials at all levels. It is also an opportunity for these officials to get to know Vassar Temple and the Jewish community. We anticipate offering monthly programs with elected officials that will be open to Vassar Temple members, community friends and family.

Save the date for these upcoming programs:

Poughkeepsie Mayor Yvonne Flowers and Poughkeepsie Town Supervisor Rebecca Edwards on Sunday, February 22 from 3-5pm.

Dutchess Family Court Judge the Honorable Jeffrey C. Martin on Sunday, March 8 from 3-5pm.

From the Rabbi's Desk: Happy New Year, Vassar Temple!

As we welcome 2026, I want to begin with a bit of learning that has stayed with me since a December Torah study—shameless plug: we meet most Saturday mornings from 9–10am, hybrid in the sanctuary.

That session opened something for me about how our tradition gives us a map for being in deep relationship with God and with humanity—both of which our tradition names in many different ways in order to articulate something greater than ourselves, even if we struggle with belief altogether. And it's precisely that struggle—and what emerges from it—that I want to return to this month.

We looked at the moment Jacob wrestles—whether with an angel, a mysterious "ish," maybe a river spirit, or simply with himself—and receives a new name: Israel.

The text tells us:

"Your name shall no longer be Jacob, but Israel, for you have wrestled with beings divine and human and have prevailed." (Gen. 32:29) — בְּצֵלֶם אֱלֹהִים שָׁרַט עִם־אֱלֹהִים — "because you have struggled with God."

Jacob struggles through the night. But notice: he doesn't struggle against God—he struggles with God. The struggle itself is a form of intimacy and relationship. And from that wrestling comes not defeat or loss, but a new name, a new identity, a blessing.

During Torah study, someone pointed out a powerful wordplay that links this moment to the very first chapter of Genesis. Humanity is created:

— בְּצֵלֶם אֱלֹהִים tzelem Elohim — "in the image of God."

B'tzelem Elohim and im Elohim. The Bible's earliest description of being human connects directly to the moment we become Israel.

From b'tzelem Elohim we learn that every single human being carries a divine spark—no matter who you are, where you come from, what you have or don't have, which "side of the tracks" you were born on, or where in the world you might be. Every person is worthy of dignity because every person is holy.

Then from im Elohim we learn that the nature of what it is to be Israel is not just about struggling with God, but about having a with-ness with the divine element—a relationship that requires us to show up whole, living in awareness of every part of who we are in order to step forward on the path of our lives, even if it's with a limp—like Jacob, who carries both his wound and his blessing forward. Healing is also part of the journey.

As we begin this new year, I want to invite you to follow this ancient map:

First, acknowledge the Divine image within you. Honor that spark of sacredness that is uniquely yours.

And second, examine your with-ness. Where—and how—do you experience or feel that with-ness? What practices, relationships, communities, or questions help you feel connected? Where might you want to deepen that connection in 2026?

This moment in Torah is not only a story about Jacob—it's an origin story for us. Every new year, every transition, every turning of the calendar invites us to become Israel again, to live with deeper awareness of who we are and who we yearn to become.

And as a teaser—we are also starting to read another great origin story: the opening chapters of Exodus, the beginnings of our liberation narrative that will eventually lead us to Passover this spring. Another season of beginnings.

Wishing you a year of clarity, courage, and gentle with-ness.

Happy New Year, and I look forward to seeing you at Vassar Temple—and maybe even at Torah study.

Rabbi Jeff Stombaugh

President's Message: Happy Second New Year!

It is interesting having a Jewish New Year and a secular New Year, but I'll take it. Two celebrations sound fine. While January brings meetings and the usual services and activities, we can look forward to the Soup and Chili Tisch Shabbat on January 23. Everything takes place in the social hall, bringing special warmth and spirituality to a very cold time of year. Thank you to Sisterhood for this Tisch shabbat! I also wanted to talk more about the security initiatives Vassar Temple is involved with, covering several areas. We are progressing with our Homeland Security grant process, forming our security committee, and working with the Federation and a community-wide security committee coordinated by them. This is focused on physical security in large part.

I recently spoke with the URJ representative for small congregations regarding online security and specifically social media. This is a very difficult and at times very complicated problem. Social media can be a great way to connect with others and for Vassar Temple to reach many in our community far and wide. But let's face it, social media can put you in a spotlight you may not want to be in due to how it works and how people can share things. We are a synagogue, congregation, a group, and we care about our fellow congregants. We do not want to hurt anyone in this congregation by posting something; we want to support each other. With the turbulent times we are living in, sometimes a post takes on a life of its own in online discussion. Whether by phone, email or social media, Vassar Temple can draw attention. On a local level, this can be manageable. But if the attention is on some social media platforms, that is no longer manageable and can reach a wide number of viewers. This may include people we don't know and don't know us; people who just don't care or have an agenda. With that in mind, freedom of speech is an absolute as members of this congregation and as citizens of this nation. However, in online discussion be aware that your board wants to keep our congregation safe and away from rampant antisemitism. We would want to have everyone consider possible consequences before they post.

Other steps have been taken regarding use of generalized RSVP emails, and information on our website is limited to what we need to include. Emails to the Rabbi, office, and board are reviewed for spam emails/texts. Please contact the office if you get an email/text from anyone that may be "phishing" for donations and you are suspicious. These issues are new and complicated and a bit scary, but we'll do our best as we have done pretty successfully so far!

Though we are heading into the thick of winter, stay warm inside or enjoy the cold weather sports. And I wish you another Happy New Year and a year of peace and tolerance. May all the rest of the hostages come home to their families and may the ceasefire become permanent.

Soup and Chili Tisch Shabbat ~ Friday, January 23 at 6pm

On Friday, January 23 at 6pm, we will gather at Vassar Temple for a soup and chili dinner as part of a warm and wonderful in-person Tisch Shabbat. As we sit around tables in the social hall, Rabbi Stombaugh and Cantor Goldmann will lead a service modeled on the "Rebbe's Tisch," using Visual Tefillah (slides of the prayers projected on a screen, instead of prayer books), featuring lots of singing and stories. Sisterhood will provide a festive meal of homemade soups, vegetarian chili, challah, cornbread, and salad to be enjoyed during the service. There will be an Oneg to follow.

Everyone is very welcome; while reservations are not required, having an idea of the anticipated attendance in advance certainly makes the planning so much easier!

Donations for the dinner are appreciated; checks should be payable to Vassar Temple Sisterhood. If you'd like to make soup* or chili let us know. Other ways to help with this event include contributing to the Oneg offerings or helping with the set up. We look forward to hearing from you. For additional questions, please send a message to:

TischShabbat@vassartemple.org.

Please RSVP by January 16 to let us know if you are coming; you can get in touch either at TischShabbat@vassartemple.org or by calling the temple at 845-454-2570.

*Soup ideas could include those containing vegetables (beans, squash, etc.), cheese or pasta.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL UPDATE

Rabbi Adin Steinsaltz wrote about how the New Year for Trees, Tu B'Shvat, evolved over the centuries. It began as an Israelite tax deadline—and then Jews were exiled. Jews made a deliberate effort to connect with the land of Israel, and the holiday grew into a minor festival.

Today, Tu B'Shvat connects us with our planet. Rabbi Steinsaltz writes “that all living creatures—plants included—have a connection with the human spirit, a common bond of life.”

Modern Israel, where early pioneers tilled the land and fought off malaria in the swamps in the north, is an environmental champion:

- Israel, having planted 240 million trees, was one of only two countries to enter the 21st century with more trees than it had entering the 20th century.
- Israel developed drip irrigation in the 1960s, which it brought to Africa to help people grow crops in desert conditions.
- Israel developed the first commercial wind farm in the Middle East in 1992.
- Israel developed the first permanent bike-sharing program in the Middle East in 2011.
- In 2012, Israel surpassed the European Union as the biggest recycler of plastic.
- Israel's SodaStream company has also helped the entire world reduce its consumption of plastic bottles.

On Sunday, February 1,
 Vassar Temple will celebrate with a
 Tu B'Shvat seder starting at 10:00am ~ and you're invited!

SISTERHOOD RECIPE OF THE MONTH: Submitted by Susan Colodner

Creamy Roasted Cauliflower Soup

Ingredients

- 1 large head cauliflower (about 2 pounds), cut into bite-size pieces
- 3 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- Fine sea salt
- 1 medium red onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 cups vegetable broth
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice (can use less)
- Scant $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground nutmeg

Instructions

- Preheat oven to 425°
- Toss cauliflower with 2 tablespoons of the olive oil and a small amount of salt
- Arrange cauliflower on baking sheet in a single layer—bake until cauliflower is tender and caramelized on the edges, about 25 to 35 minutes, tossing halfway
- In Dutch Oven, warm remaining tablespoon of oil, add onion and cook until tender and translucent, 5 to 7 minutes
- Add garlic, stirring and cook about 30 seconds until fragrant
- Add broth and cauliflower—increase heat to bring mixture to a simmer, then reduce heat to a gentle simmer—cook about 20 minutes, giving flavors time to meld
- When soup is done, remove from heat and allow to cool for a few minutes
- Transfer to a blender in small batches or use an immersion blender
- Add butter and blend until smooth
- Add lemon juice and nutmeg and blend again, adding additional salt to taste. You can add more lemon if soup needs more zing.

Vassar Temple's Annual Souper Sale ~ January 1-31

During this chilly winter that is especially difficult for so many, we are asking for financial donations in any amount to help us purchase cases of canned deluxe chunky soups to aid our neighbors in need. Warm, comforting, filling and nutritious. Let's nurture the bodies and souls of those in need of all ages, from tots to senior citizens. To help, just send a check in any amount made out to Vassar Temple with "Souper Sale" on the subject line, or donate on our website to Vassar Temple's Community Tzedakah Fund, and note it's for Souper Sale. All money collected for this project will be exchanged for temple scrip, which will be used to buy the soup. A win/win deal!

At Vassar Temple, helping to feed those in need is possible when we all join together. Thank you!

Social Action Happenings

Thanks to all who supported the fall social action projects in any way—Sisterhood winter wear knitting project, Dutchess Outreach October Coat Drive, Bright Nights (which brought 350 new coats to Sojourner Truth Elementary School alone), Pack-a-Purse which yielded three car loads of pocketbooks filled with hygiene products for Grace Smith House residents, and our Temple Thanksgiving project, Holiday Bags for Vets (Castle Point was thrilled!). The Community Tzedakah Fund also presented Reunite Migrant Families with supermarket gift cards. And our gratitude goes to everyone who assisted in any way with our ongoing Lunch Box and Shelter Meal projects. Watch for our Annual Souper Sale, coming up this month!

The Poughkeepsie City School district is reorganizing, and the local Jewish Social Action Coalition, of which we are members, is continuing to help families in need at Sojourner Truth (formerly Morse) and Clinton Schools (Pre-K thru grade 5). Currently there is a monthly food distribution program providing quality fresh food to 60 families, holiday gift cards were distributed in November and December, and plans are underway for educational enrichment programming, such as multicultural storytellers and puppeteers. Most of the funding for all this comes from grants we obtain, but private donations are always welcome. We hope to be working with the new school administrators soon to create volunteer opportunities for reading with and tutoring the children and helping in the library, as we did pre-Covid. The members of the coalition are Vassar Temple, Congregation Shir Chadash, Congregation Schomre Israel, Temple Beth-El, and the Harding Club. If anyone from Vassar Temple would like to join me in serving on the JSAC, please contact me!
